

MORNING APPEAL.

THURSDAY...NOVEMBER 29

THANKSGIVING DAY.

It being Thanksgiving Day today, the APPEAL turns its compositors loose on the turkey and cranberry contingent.

The State of Nevada has much to be thankful for this year. The season has witnessed a partial return of old time prosperity of mining and other business.

Surveyors are in the field making preliminary surveys for the sites of water storage reservoirs, and in all directions one sees signs of growth and progress.

As far as individuals are concerned, if you have no thankfulness to express for your own prosperity, eat the bread of thankfulness for your neighbor. If you can't be thankful, be as thankful as you can.

CALLING THE CHINESE HOME.

It is reported, but the rumor is not as yet verified, that the Chinese Government has issued an edict ordering the Chinese now living in the United States to return to China. The cause of this decree is said to be the signing of the Exclusion Act by President Cleveland, as the Chinese Government cannot now in honor allow its subjects to remain in the United States.

Should such a decree be issued by the Imperial Government of China, it is not probable that many of the Chinese in the United States would obey it. Neither is it probable that a very large majority of the white people on this Coast would encourage them to leave, or rejoice at their departure. Since the election cry, has been raised in many parts of California about the scarcity of labor. Many of the canning establishments, vineyardists and fruit growers in the Golden State appear to want Chinese labor, and it is doubtful if the signing of the Exclusion Act did not lose President Cleveland more votes than it gained him in the fruit growing districts of California.

Too Economical.

"It is strange how a man can become a chronic growler," remarked an old resident, and fall in the habit of bearing and running down every proposition. I was told just the other week that I could find no market in Austin for my produce and hay and that there was no use to drive in. To show you what they knew about it, I sold everything in two hours and could have disposed of twice as much in the same time. It is all how you go at it. If you throw around a little money and see the boys for a good time, it makes trade and helps business. Some of the ranchers bring in their lunches and eat cold meat and bread, to save a four bit piece for a hot dinner but those men are taboed, as too close to succeed. A rancher wants to throw around a little money to clinch a good bargain and make room for another order."—Reveille.

The Frozen Truth.

Without a few chunks of frozen truth to sit on, Jim Townsend is all at sea. In the last issue of the Homer Index he calls loudly for truth as follows:

"Don't exaggerate about your mines. Tell the plain, unvarnished truth about them, for an examination is sure to reveal the true situation. Exaggeration, instead of aiding to sell a mine, acts as a drawback. Men who speak in extravagant terms are invariably discredited. The mines of Homer District are big enough without adding cyphers to the assays and doubling their width, and we would like to see all hands come down to frozen truth.

—People of Helena, M. T., are greatly stirred up over a publication in the Independent calling the attention of the mothers and fathers of the city to the danger in which their daughters are placed by promiscuous flirtation. Editors get nothing but carves for this sort of work. Parents cannot be convinced of the truth until it is too late.

BREEDING ANARCHISTS.

The idea is prevalent that when foreigners come to this country they soon assimilate with Americans and become really good Americans in a few generations.

This not true of all foreigners. The socialists of Chicago are founding schools where Anarchy is taught. The spawn soon makes material for the penitentiary, and they are such a low breed of curs that no amount of admixture of good blood can eradicate the taint which comes down to them from the scaffolds, poor houses and prisons of the Old World.

The next Illinois Legislature ought to look after those "schcols."

—An Oakland preacher announces from the pulpit that a husband ought to condone his wife's infidelity and seek to reconcile her actions with a forgiving spirit. He should bring no bill for divorce until her waywardness becomes a habit. The husbands of the congregation are beginning to overlook their flint locks.
